

Three Workshops

with Jonathon Clark

Astrology and Relationships – Saturday 20 September 2014

Are all Scorpios sex mad? Can Geminis ever sustain a partnership? These, and other related astrological questions will be explored through the examination of the charts of some high profile couples including the basic suitability and the timing of key events in their relationships. The material will be viewed in the context of the Tree of Life which can often provide additional insights. Bring your own chart for examination – if you dare!

Kabbalah, Business & Money – Saturday 8 November 2014

Whether we are employed, self-employed or financially independent the successful management of money is a skill to be learned. According to Kabbalah, every aspect of life, including finance and business, is a reflection of the Divine as shown in the diagram of the Tree of Life. This workshop will help you understand how money and businesses - whether it is Marks and Spencer or the corner shop - behave in accordance with universal principles.

Kabbalah and Everyday Life – Saturday 10 January 2015

All around us we can see evidence of the archetypal patterns embedded in the diagram of the Tree of Life. Using films, literature and the ideas behind external religious practices are just some of the ways to help us identify these principles. Once understood, they can be incorporated into our own lives ensuring greater success whatever we do – whether planning a holiday, buying a house or just trying to understand family dynamics!
